

I became a Christian in 1978 at the Billy Graham's Evangelical Outreach. Then, I told myself I must not to like those whom I met who did not grasp their faith well and were not able to respond to my questions and who eventually converted their faith and no longer professes Christianity. I must really know and have confidence in my faith. During the process of earnestly wanting to know more, I discovered that the Bible had recorded the most reliable resources for my desire to know and trust more, and even provided a real assurance and affirmation of who is Jesus, who is God, who are we and our relations with God. Through such understanding, every day and every minute of my life can be ordinary, be firmly secure and also allows me to continually draw from the bible unceasingly and be able to know this divine creator and experience his greatness.
